Pilot Program Through TDSC.com Subsidiary Addresses Dental Practices' Non-Traditional Supply and Equipment Needs

MELVILLE, N.Y., October 2, 2024 – Henry Schein, Inc. (Nasdaq: HSIC) today announced the launch of Henry Schein Marketplace, a new online service that will offer more than 8,000 non-clinical products to dental customers looking for the additional convenience of purchasing supplies from a single source at competitive prices.

Henry Schein Marketplace will offer products ranging from printer ink and office furniture to coffee pods and breakroom snacks from suppliers such as Staples and brands such as Lysol® and Keurig®. Office and breakroom supplies are typically purchased by dental practices from a variety of online sources and retail stores. By having a large selection of these products in one place, Henry Schein aims to streamline the purchasing process for customers, saving time and unlocking value. The Marketplace will be piloted by The Dentists Supply Company (TDSC.com), an online-only distributor of supplies for dental professionals powered by Henry Schein.

“Henry Schein is excited to enhance its online offerings, helping to deliver a seamless and convenient digital shopping experience for customers,” said Mark Hillebrandt, Vice President and Chief Digital Revenue Officer, Henry Schein, Inc. “By providing even greater access to expertly curated products, we believe Henry Schein Marketplace advances the Company’s digital transformation strategy and addresses the growing need of our dental customers to maximize spending and efficiency.”

Henry Schein Marketplace will be seamlessly integrated into TDSC.com, which now offers a large selection of competitively priced dental supplies and small equipment from selected manufacturers and companies. In 2025, Henry Schein expects to broaden the availability of the Marketplace through HenrySchein.com.
